

Grammarian

Being Grammarian is an exercise in improving your listening skills.

You have two basic responsibilities:

1. to comment on the positive and negative uses of English during the meeting;
2. to introduce a new word and explain the correct use of it.

These are designed to help your fellow members improve their use of language.

Before the meeting

Select a 'Word of the Day'. It should be a word that will help members increase their vocabulary and one that can be incorporated easily into everyday conversation, but is different from the way people usually express themselves. Adjectives and adverbs are more adaptable than nouns or verbs, but feel free to select your own special word. If you know the theme for the meeting, use this to help you select your word.

In letters large enough to be seen from, print your word on the flipchart and on a sheet of paper that can be displayed at the back of the room. You can also include its part of speech (adjective, adverb, noun, etc.) and a brief definition.

Prepare a few sentences to explain the meaning of the word and how it is used.

Prepare a brief explanation of the duties of the Grammarian for the benefit of the guests.

At the Start of the Meeting

- When called upon, explain the role of the Grammarian.
- Announce your 'Word of the Day', state its part of speech, define it, use it in a sentence and encourage members to use it.

During the meeting

Listen to everyone's word usage.

Write down any particularly good uses of language and your reason for selection.

Write down any awkward use or misuse of the language - for example: incomplete sentences, sentences that change direction in mid-stream, incorrect grammar etc. Note the speakers concerned.

Write down who used the 'Word of the Day' (or a derivative of it) and note those who used it correctly or incorrectly.

Grammarian's Report

- Report on what you thought was good and poor language usage and your reasons for selection.
- Offer the correct usage in every instance where there was a misuse, instead of only explaining what was wrong.
- Announce who used the 'Word of the Day' (or a derivative of it) correctly or incorrectly.

Your report should be 1 -1 ½ minutes
